

THE ELECTED LEADER'S CREDO

By Rhett Laubach

I will lead and always remember what it is like to follow.
I will speak my voice and listen when you are doing the same.

I will be me and let you be you.
I will not pretend to be perfect and not expect that from you.

I will lift you up and give thanks when you return the favor.
I will live a clean-powerful-positive life and help you do the same.

I will focus on how we are the same and not worry about how we are different.
I will choose to smile and let you smile when you choose to.

I will look for the good in myself and in you.
I will learn from those who have come before and leave a challenge for those yet to come.

I will change where change is needed and remain the same where it is not.
I will arrive early and stay late.

I will strive to do valuable, meaningful work and help you do the same.
I will be clear in voice, motive and action and strive to understand you.

I will remember my job is to serve and every day find a way to take you to work with me.

yourNEXTspeaker!
