

My Personal Thoughts on Leadership

Some think leaders are born. Others believe leaders are made—by their experiences, the skills they acquire, the successes they achieve. Everyone has leadership potential.

My definition of leadership is—

I think the three most important leadership skills are—

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

The three leaders I most admire are—(Next to each name list two traits you particularly admire.)

1. _____ Traits: _____

2. _____ Traits: _____

3. _____ Traits: _____

Name four chapter members you would choose to organize a parent/member banquet:

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

Name two members you would ask to organize a play day for physically challenged children:

1. _____

2. _____

Name the person you would ask to introduce a skit at a senior citizens' party:

1. _____

2. _____

Name two members you would call on to head a member recruitment drive:

1. _____

2. _____

Are the names the same?

Probably not. Chapter members have varied talents and skills but may be overlooked as potential leaders. Keep in mind that everyone has something unique to contribute. Effective chapter leaders discover abilities in themselves and others.
